

| | | | | | | |
|--|--|--|--|---|--|---|
| | Copyright statement at the bottom of the webpage on behalf of the State of Vermont, rather than associated with the text of each document. | Copyright statement at the bottom of the webpage on behalf of the State of Vermont, rather than associated with the text of each document. | Copyright statement at the bottom of the webpage on behalf of the State of Vermont, rather than associated with the text of each document. | Copyright statement at the bottom of the webpage on behalf of LexisNexis. | | Copyright statement at the bottom of the webpage on behalf of the State of Vermont, rather than associated with the text of each document. |
| | No | No | No | No | | No |
| | No | No | No | No | | Yes. Vermont adopted universal citation for appellate cases via the Vermont Rules of Appellate Procedure, Rule 28.2, effective January 1, 2003. |

Public law libraries provide access to primary legal sources and other materials.

| | | | | |
|--|--|--|--|--|
| | | | | |
| | | | | |