

Like most in the profession, law librarianship was not on Marcia Burris's career radar. In fact, she was planning to become a teacher. However, after working as a teacher for several years, she decided to pursue a master's degree in library science. After completing her master's, she worked as a law librarian for several years. Then, in 1998, she started her own library service company, Burris Library Services.

You served as an Annual Meeting Program Committee (AMPC) Team Leader. In your experience, what makes a solid proposal?

How has your past work experience benefited you in your current position?

As a leader, how do you balance tending to immediate needs with strategic planning?

Diversity and inclusion continue to be important topics in law librarianship. What positive changes have you seen within the profession and in your own firm toward diversity and inclusion?

How do you stay on top of developments in legal technology?

Within the legal information profession, who do you admire most?

How do you stay engaged and passionate about you-35.7 (l)2.9 (u)-12 (a)-4.7(o)5.4 (n)-11.7 (.)-10 ( )J40)-29.4w